Sunee

The director of A mid summer night's dream (Sam Robinson) at the Geffen playhouse loves the play for everything from the magical quality to the humor.

He has been studying theater since he was young and made his first appearance in third grade. He has studied theater throughout his life from elementary school all the way to the London Academy of Dramatic Arts.

He also has been in many musicals and loves to sing. But he stays true to his love of Shakespeare and has read all thirty-seven plays. He grew up in San Dimas, California and like millions of other people he loves Avatar. But a unique thing about him it that he bakes his own bread and has won many awards
